

Learn to Classify Infant-Parent Attachment in the Strange Situation

Instructor: Judith Solomon, PhD

Workshop Dates: June 18—22; June 25—29, 2018

Hosted by the Adelphi University Institute for Parenting, Garden City, Long Island, New York

ABOUT THE TRAINER

Judith Solomon, PhD, has presented numerous training workshops, seminars, and lectures at the local, national and international levels. She is a licensed clinical psychologist and infant mental health specialist and a well-known attachment researcher. Dr. Solomon specializes in integrating caregiving and attachment in research and infant mental health psychotherapy, the use of research instruments in assessment and treatment planning, and training and supervision of infant mental health clinicians. Her publications include attachment theory's seminal volume on attachment disorganization, Attachment Disorganization, (1999, Guilford Press, 1999) and its follow-up, Disorganized Attachment and Caregiving (2011, Guilford Press). In addition to her pioneering research establishing the disorganized infant and child attachment category, she has authored research and theoretical papers on infants and divorce and representational models of attachment and caregiving.

THE COURSE

This two-week seminar provides participants with training in the use of Ainsworth's system of attachment classification and interactive rating and Main and Solomon's classification and rating system for the insecure-disorganized group.

The first half of the training will focus on the A, B, and C categories; the remainder on disorganization (D). The training will include lecture and demonstration and requires substantial time and effort outside of the classroom including on the intervening weekend. Participants will be eligible to take the reliability test in the weeks following the course, at an additional cost.

Those wishing to take D training only should first contact the trainer by email.

THE VENUE

The workshop will be held on the beautiful campus of Adelphi University in Garden City, New York. Adelphi is easily accessible with a 30-minute train ride from NYC.

Participants are responsible for arranging their own accommodations. A hotel list will be provided. If you want to share a room, let us know and we will provide you with contact information of other participants with the same interest.

TRAINING ELIGIBILITY

Developmental and clinical researchers, graduate students, and faculty are eligible to participate in the workshop. Other interested students and professionals may be admitted after consulting with Dr. Solomon. It is assumed that participants have adequate background in attachment theory and are comfortable in written and spoken English. Reading material will be provided for the workshop.

No previous experience in attachment assessment is required.

REGISTRATION AND FEES

Registration is limited to 20 participants and is on a first come, first serve basis.

Training Course Fees: $1300

Fees cover the costs of the workshop and all materials for both weeks. Deadline: Fees are due by May 20, 2016. Cancellation after June 8 will result in a forfeit of fees.

Cost of the reliability assessment: $450

Register online at <http://parenting.adelphi.edu/workshops/>

CONTACT INFORMATION

Judith Solomon

Email:

juasolomon@gmail.com

Phone: 510-604-4392

